

■ Manthan Platform Launched for Better Industry-R&D Collaboration

The Government of India has launched Manthan - a platform that aims to promote collaboration at scale between industry and the scientific research and development ecosystem to help meet India's sustainability goals in alignment with the UN defined SDGs (Sustainable Development Goals). The platform also presents an opportunity to bring national and global communities closer to India's technology revolution. Spearheaded by the office of the Principal Scientific Adviser (PSA), the platform facilitates knowledge transfers and interactions through information exchange sessions, exhibitions, and events to develop a framework for future science, innovation, and technology-led growth.
