New Features Added to eShram Portal to Enhance Utility for Unorganised Workforce

Union Ministry for Labour and Employment has taken a monumental step towards improving the lives of unorganised workers by launching a range of new features on the eShram portal. With the portal already functioning as a means of registering workers, the newly added features will enable workers to connect with employment opportunities, skilling, apprenticeships, pension schemes, digital skilling, and state-specific schemes. The feature that captures family details of migrant workers will further provide access to child education and women-centric schemes for those who have migrated with family. Another feature has been introduced to share their data with the respective Building and Other Construction Workers' Welfare Board. The data sharing feature will also enable sharing of information with State and Union Territory governments.
