

HEB

Journal of Hospital Pharmacy

An Official Publication of Bureau for Health & Education Status Upliftment
(Constitutionally Entitled As Health-Education, Bureau)

JOHP

A Review Article On: Role of Community Pharmacist during Pandemic of Covid - 19

Sushil S Kore, Visheshwar M Dharashive, Yuvraj M Katu, Suraj G Malpani, Shraddha T Nemane & Nilesh N Shinde*

Shivlingeshwar College of Pharmacy Almala, Tq. Ausa, Dist. Latur, Maharashtra India

Address for Correspondence: editorjohp@gmail.com

Abstract

Today, community pharmacists play key role in any country as they take responsibility for patient's medication related requirements for good to healthcare. However, in India only the supplement of medication persists the core action of the community pharmacist. Most community pharmacists in the country still hardly proposed patient-orientate facility. The role of the pharmacists in the community, and with it their medicine control, may change in the rise of the fast growth of domestic medicine product and national healthcare amount of money spent. This article is looking out to discuss the genesis of Indian community pharmacy, the majority of which are confidentially granted, and sketches its education, training and future prospects. The discussion of community pharmacists' role and the content of pharmaceutical care (PC) during the novel coronavirus pandemic to promote effective prevention and control and safe drug use of the community patient population.

Key words: Community pharmacy, pharmacy practice, India, pharmaceutical care.