

Hypothetical Voizons

The 8th State of Matter

Surbhi Dahiya

JACK, on receiving the highest scientific honour, in his speech, said, “Imagine three different interactions, sound waves, light waves, and vacuum. The study of these three interactions has led to the creation of ‘Voizons’ due to their triad-relationship. As we know, sound does not travel through a vacuum, and light does; hence, the mechanism takes place differently to understand the study of this state of matter.”

Jack, after performing an experiment in his laboratory, exclaimed with joy, “I have discovered the hypothetical state of matter that is no more hypothetical now.”

He made a discovery through which sound waves travel through a vacuum, along with light waves, and this special interaction led to the discovery of the beautiful synergetic state of matter, which he called Voizons, meaning interaction with both sound and light with a vacuum. This discovery will be a breakthrough in the physical world as it will pave the way for understanding the universe.

“Yes, Now the sound can travel on the Moon.” He exclaimed with joy.

He developed an apparatus that made deviation of sound to the degree near zero, that could not identify the difference between vacuum and medium, and this confused the sound waves, making penetration in the vacuum smooth. However, this did not make a very creative journey until he passed the light waves and saw the dancing of all three triads and forming voizons.

He was observing voizons, the dance and joy of triads, and suddenly he felt that a picture appeared inside the chamber. The picture was more beautiful than the plasma looked and colder than the Bose-Einstein state of matter would be. The picture was constantly rotating and revolving; other than that, it appeared and then vanished in less than a fraction of a second.

The appearance of the picture spoke a few words, “Century 9th to the power X-pyramid years,”

Jack was enjoying the interaction with the picture while he was confused with the years it spoke.

Then Jack spoke, “Where I am?”

You are at the twin sister of Earth, Metha, the picture spoke, while maintaining the appearance and disappearance simultaneously.

He realised that he was in two zones of movement: one, a picture that conveyed Metha’s message, and another movement, where he was travelling on Metha.

He heard a blast sound, and this frightened him.

“What is happening?” he asked himself.

Now, the picture came out of the chamber and held his hand.

While the picture held his hand, he felt the pull of gravity against himself, and it led him to follow some paths.

Some footprints appeared while he travelled, and the picture told him that Earth was Metha’s enemy.

“However, you said that she was her twin sister,” Jack asked.

Earth robbed her of everything, they both were born with their heads joined. They both had equal resources, and men and women lived here too.
