

I HAVE A 'GOOD CANCER'

Natasha Das

In July 2024, doctors told me I had Papillary Thyroid Cancer (PTC). The cancer surgeon removed my entire thyroid gland, and then the nuclear medicine specialist gave me oral Radioactive Iodine (RAI) therapy. It has been a few weeks since that. I take thyroid hormone replacement medicine daily and happily go to work. As a doctor, I understand thyroid cancer is a 'good cancer' to have, but this term can be confusing for others.
