Ankur Warikoo brings life lessons beyond the pages of his books

Ankur Warikoo signs books for patrons at Storyteller Bookstore

With his new book, Ankur Warikoo returns with a deeply personal guide to one of life's most essential elements: relationships. The book arrives at a time when everyone, from founders, creators and managers to partners and parents, is navigating power, influence, conflict and identity in an always-on, hyper-visible world.

Throughout the session, Warikoo shared snippets from his personal life and explained how they have shaped his journey so far. Rather than delivering a grand motivational speech, he grounded the conversation in candid, real-life experiences. His honest reflections struck a chord with the audience, who found his anecdotes not only relatable but also encouraging.

Speaking about Warikoo's visit, Mayura Misra, founder of Storyteller Bookstore, said: "It was a pleasure to host celebrated

The event also highlighted the enduring appeal of bookstores as spaces for meaningful interactions between authors and readers. Unlike literary festivals, this intimate format allows readers to engage with their favourite authors on a more personal level.

Meeting an author who has shaped one's outlook is quite a memorable experience. The atmosphere at Storyteller Bookstore was precisely that on June 26, when best-selling author, entrepreneur and motivational speaker Ankur Warikoo met readers for an intimate interaction and book-signing session. The event brought together avid readers, students and young professionals, all eager to meet the man who has penned some of India's most widely read self-help books.

Warikoo has garnered a loyal following with his candid approach to conversations about careers, entrepreneurship, life lessons and, above all, personal growth. Known for best-selling books such as *Get Epic S*it Done* and Beyond The Syllabus, he certainly knows how to leave a mark on his readers. His new book is Winning People Without Losing Yourself.

Warikoo's visit to the city gave his fans the opportunity to meet him in person and engage in a candid conversation beyond the pages of his books. The intimate setting of the bookstore allowed people to connect with their favourite author in a more relaxed environment. Many waited patiently in a queue to have their books signed and capture the moment with a photograph.
